For that reason alone, perhaps, they permitted the New Orleans Pelicans, champions of the Southern Association, to open up quite a comfortable lead before winning by a score of 5 to 4 this afternoon.

The difference in the teams was measured by the pitchers. Jeff Tesreau, the first Giant twirler to go nine innings this year, failed to warm to his work in the first three innings. Bill Rariden, former Mayor of Bedford City, Ind., upheld the honor of the Hoosier State in a beatting manner. He got two nifty hits, one a two-bagger, and crossed the plate twice. Once he was driven home by Larry Boyle and another time by Georgie Burns. Fred Merkle and Artic Fletchen were in the thick of the fight, too. We refuse to say which was the thicker.
